

POST LANDS AT BLAGOVESCHENSK; REASON UNKNOWN

Spot is 400 Miles Short of His Goal, Khabarovsk, in Siberia

DISPATCH SENT IS BRIEF

Landed There With Gatty in 1931; Believed To Have Trouble

MOSCOW, July 19.—Wiley Post, American round-the-world flier landed today at Blagoveshensk, Siberia, on his attempted hop from Irkutsk to Khabarovsk.

Blagoveshensk is on the northern Manchurian-Siberian frontier, one thousand miles east of Irkutsk and 400 miles west of Khabarovsk.

A dispatch announcing his arrival there did not state when he brought his plane down.

Post and Harold Gatty landed at Blagoveshensk in 1931 on their world circling flight. It is believed here the American flier may have been forced down by trouble with the feed pipe on his robot, or automatic feed pipe which was not working properly on his jump from Moscow to Novosibirsk.

ARREST 12 STRIKERS

Lansdale, July 19—Twelve strikers were arrested today after tear gas had been used to quell disorders outside the Dextdale Hosiery Mills as 300 workers defying the demands of their fellow workers returned to work for the second consecutive day. The outbreak occurred when 300 strikers, in defiance of a local edict forbidding them to picket within 50 feet of the mills, began parading around the plant. The tear gas barrage drove some of the pickets away but most of them returned with sweaters and handkerchiefs drawn over their faces. While the tear gas fumes were being released, one of the strikers hurled a rock which struck Rodney Shaver, chief of police of Jenkintown and leader of the 50 deputies from Montgomery county who have assumed charge of the situation.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Moore, Otter street, and Mrs. Joseph Brown, Monroe street, spent Sunday at Seaside, N. J., visiting Richard and Howard Brown, who are spending the summer there.

ITALIAN FLIERS OFF FOR NEW YORK

Chicago, Ill., July 19.—Italy's Atlantic squadron of 24 silver seaplanes commanded by General Italo Balbo, hopped off from Chicago Harbor at 7.45 a. m. (C. D. T.) today for New York, the first stop on the return trip to Orbetello. The armada took off in groups of 3 planes, General Balbo's own being the first to get away. The others skimmed across the harbor and followed him upward in rapid succession. After circling low over the "loop," Balbo left behind him the Century of Progress and hundreds of cheering spectators, nosing his flagship southeast along the shore of Lake Michigan and in the direction of Toledo.

Wood Iron and Steel Company, the main plant of which is located at Ivy Rock, near here, today put into effect a 15 per cent increase in wages. The increase benefits 1500 employees of the company's plants at Ivy Rock and Swedeland. A ten per cent increase in

PAYROLLS BOOSTED

Philadelphia, July 19.—Adoption of codes in the silk, steel and garment industries has boosted payrolls of Eastern Pennsylvania's mills approximately $2,500,000 annually, industrial leaders estimated today. A $40,000 weekly increase in wages went to textile workers in the eastern silk mills.
The steel code brought pay increases to plants at Bethlehem, Allentown, Coatesville and in the Conshohocken area. Adoption of a minimum wage in several garment factories brought an estimated $250,000 increase in pay-rolls. Thousands of paper box makers in Philadelphia will benefit from a wage increase anticipated under the new code submitted for approval by Federal authorities.

BACH, PARK LOITERER, FACES COURT TRIAL

Hears Railroad Watchman
Identify Him As Man
He Saw

SAYS HE HEARD SCREAM

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Richard Bach, 20, dangling park loiterer, stepped into a crowded court room for the second time today to hear the Commonwealth press its fight to send him to the electric chair for the murder of Rose McCloskey, 19, last January.

Bach already has heard Thomas Barry, a railroad crossing watchman, identify him as the man he saw behind a sand pile where Rose and her companion Dennis Boyle, had disappeared a short time earlier. "And ten minutes after, I saw this fellow (Bach) walk toward that sand pile. I heard a long, blood-curdling scream," Barry testified.

Boyle, who was brutally beaten by his sweetheart's murderer, described the events of the night and of the brutal attack in the city park.

During cross examination of Boyle, it was indicated the defense may attempt to show that Boyle and Miss Mc-Closkey quarreled and that the girl met death at the hands of a man other than Bach.

Langhorne Woman Seeks Divorce From Man Here

Charging her husband, Samuel E.
Hetherington, of 540 Locust street, Bristol, with cruel and barbarous treatment, Mrs. Blanche E. Hetherington, of Langhorne, filed a libel in the Court of Common Pleas at Doylees-town.

They were united in marriage April 20, 1927. According to the libel, the respondent deserted the libellant about June 13, 1930. Mrs. Hetherington also alleged that her husband made life cruel and burdensome for her.

Big Chief Flying Eagle Now

None of the many honors showered on General Balbo in Chicago pleased him more than his adoption by the Sioux Indians now at the World's Fair. Chief Black Horn is shown conferring the chief's name and address on the Italian air leader. Balbo's Sioux name, appropriately enough, is Chief Flying Eagle.

EMILIE, July 19.—Hulmeville A. A. jumped into first place in the Lower Bucks County League last night by white-washing the Odd Fellows, 6-0.
The victory put Hulmeville a one-half game in the lead for the second half championship.

"Howie" Black toed the hill for the winners and had his curve and fast ball working in good order. The Oddies could not solve Black's slants and were held to four measly hits. The Hulmeville twirler fanned eight batters.

Kohler pitched for the Odd Fellows and had terrible support, only one of the winners' tallies being earned.

Hulmeville counted four runs in the first when Rockhill was passed, Leigh sacrificed and Bilger singled. Prall errored on Conley's grounder. Black rolled out and Bruce singled but Haef-

Unsuccessful Attempt Made To Fire Buckman Barn

NEWTOWN, July 19.—An unsuccessful attempt has been made to fire the barn of John Buckman, this borough, it was learned yesterday.

When Mr. Buckman went to a section of the barn on his property yesterday morning he saw traces of fire, and continuing his investigation discovered a section of the structure had been afire, but apparently died out.

This was the first intimation that a supposed fire-bug had been in the vicinity of the Buckman property.

Police and fire authorities are nightly continuing their hunt for an alleged fire-bug whom it is believed has been doing much damage in the Newtown area. Fires here during the past week attributed to such, total five.

MORRISVILLE TAX CUT DECIDED; THREE MILLS

Deadlock Ended When Tie Vote is Cast by Council Members

STOCKHAM CAST VOTE

MORRISVILLE, July 19.—The deadlock on this borough's tax cut ended last night when a compromise ordinance providing for a reduction of three mills was voted 4 to 4. The deciding vote was cast by Richard Allen, who on previous occasions sided with the faction holding out for a two-mill reduction to give a deadlock tally of 5 to 3.

Allen's vote was alleged by Councilman Charles Young to have been made "not of his (Allen's) own desire." Young declared it was "shameful a borough officer cannot come into a meeting with a free and open mind."

"People of the borough do not know of the tactics that are resorted to to carry a tax ordinance," Young asserted, "but they should know and I want them to know of this condition." While Young was emphatic in his accusations that some member had been influenced, he was careful not to mention either the councilman's name involved or the one purported to have influenced him.

At the conclusion of Young's attack, however, Mayor Thomas B. Stockham, who vetoed the original tax ordinance in May providing for a two mill reduction and urged that a four mill drop be provided, stated that the remarks of Mr. Young justified an answer. Mayor Stockham then admitted that the "man who changed his vote tonight" had discussed the matter at his request. "I merely asked that gentleman's support as a personal matter to break the deadlock," he declared.

The mayor also explained that in requesting support he was merely attempting to bring about a compromise to enable the borough to proceed with its finances. He then added: "That man can change his vote if he wishes and it can be done without any suggestion or intimidation of duress."

On the final balloting on the ordinance, which was taken under suspension of the by-laws to permit immediate preparation of the borough's delayed tax bills, Allen stuck to his deciding vote.

Those who continued to the end to vote against anything but a two mill reduction, on the grounds the financial condition of the borough did not warrant a greater slash were Councilmen Harry Lair, John Bleasdale, George W.
Burgner and Young. With Allen deserting that faction last night and casting his vote with the Stockham group, who formerly had insisted on a four mill reduction but compromised on three mills, the vote in council stood 4 to 4, with the mayor casting his vote in favor of the compromise move.

Voting with the mayor were Councilman Arthur D. Forst, A. T. Lynch, Frank Braker and Allen, Chairman Lynch at the opening of the taxquestion remarked "It had been hashed through the press and on street corners, so it would be better to get it settled." Prior to the session citizens had threatened court action against council if the dispute were not settled last night.

ment which has been located at Langhorne, has been changed to new quar-

Croydon Relief Shows Decrease in Number Aided

CROYDON, July 19.—With better times on the way, and conditions improving generally, Croydon's list of families receiving assistance through the Croydon Relief Organization has gradually diminished from 192 during the Winter to 132. The aggregate number of families cared for totalled 353.

Many heads of families have during the past several weeks been enabled to secure employment, meaning that 60 families who were assisted by relief agencies in the past, are now able to care for themselves.

The large number of people assisted in the 192 families were in Croydon alone, with the detailed work "down to a science" by the handful of workers who gladly give their services gratis.

It is announced by the officers of the relief organization that each week sees fewer names on the list, showing that more local people are getting "on their feet."

During the Winter just ended, 4,570 bags of flour, each containing 24 lbs., were sent here by the Red Cross. This supply will soon be exhausted.

Articles of clothing were brought here by the truck-load at times, from points as far north in the county as Perkasie and Sellersville. These articles included dresses, men's suits, undergarments, coats, shoes, clothing for children, and all were well made use of. Thousands of garments, new and used, were received at the supply room of the organization, the basement of the home of the president, Mrs. H. G. Frederick. There at specified periods men, women and children called for needed articles, and food and coal orders.

To every family on the list has a food order been given weekly, totalling anywhere from $1 to $5, depending upon the size of the family.

From January 1st to May 1st, this year, 310 orders for coal were issued.
Fourteen hospital cases were cared for, quarters in Philadelphia and Bristol hospitals being secured through assistance of the relief workers here.
In many cases medicine was given free of charge.

During the cold months, six dozen Red Cross blankets were distributed, all of them being new. Six hundred twenty-four pairs of shoes were likewise placed upon feet which otherwise would be bared to the elements.

Milk orders called for from 2,000 to 2,500 quarts per month during the peak period. This distribution ceased in April, but recently was started again, and will continue until the end of July.

The officers of the Croydon Relief Organization are: President, Mrs. H.
G. Frederick; vice-presidents, Arthur Wilkinson, James Laughlin, Harry Collins, Frank Freil; secretary, Mrs.
Otto Grupp, Jr.; treasurer, William Knight. The officers named, together with other members of the organization and residents of Croydon in general worked tirelessly to care for the details of collections, distribution of orders, filing of reports, etc.

The needed orders for food, coal, shoes, clothing, were filled by members of the Talbot fund, the Red Cross, private donations, and assistance from organizations.

DRIVER OF CAR IN CRASH IS HELD IN $1,000 BAIL

Shows Owner's Card But Denies He Was Driving

COMPANIONS ARE FINED

One man was held in $1,000 bail while his two companions were each fined $13.50 or serve 30 days each in the Bucks County jail as the result of the accident which damaged four automobiles and injured three persons on the Bristol Pike, between Bristol and Croydon Monday evening.

The alleged driver of the car, Clayton J. Smyan, 32, 1915 East Somerset street, Philadelphia, was held in bail although he denies that he was driving the machine at the time of the accident. He was charged with assault and battery by automobile.

Edward Lyons, 30, and William J.
Kelley, 31, both of Philadelphia, were fined on the charge of being drunk and disorderly.

The three were given a hearing before Justice of Peace James Laughlin last night in the Municipal Building here.

Relatives and friends of those injured in the crash along with the police authorities and Andrew Paglione testified as witnesses.

Both Superintendent of Public Safety James L. McGee and Paglione stated that Smyan said that he was the driver of the car when he was questioned at the scene of the accident.

Two other men who were in the car left after the crash and have not been apprehended.

William Wilkie, Jr., testified that Smyan was pointed out to him as the driver of the machine.

Smyan, last night, showed that he was the owner of the car.

The injured: William Wilkie, Jr., Mrs. Marian Wilkie, Marian Wilkie and Mrs. Holtzworth. All are reported as doing nicely.

CADET OFFICIALS PLEAD FOR UNIFORM DONATIONS

Want Funds to Help Legion Cadets Make Good Showing at State Convention

ASK RESIDENTS' HELP

Next month the Cadet unit of Robert Bracken Post, 382, American Legion, will compete for the championship with other cadet corps from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware at the State Convention to be held in Philadelphia.

The local boys are 1932 champions of this commonwealth, by virtue of their great showing in Pittsburgh last year, and are the defending champions at this year's convention.

The people of Bristol have shown that they are proud of this great organization of boys—proud because they are champions of the state, and proud of the fact that these youngsters not only make a great appearance on parade but because they manifest fine deportment out of uniform.

Since 1926 the Cadets have registered 527 boys in their unit, and only two of this number have come in contact with police because of offenses, and these occasions involved automobile accidents, in which the boys were exonerated of all blame.

The commanding officers insist on discipline of the strictest nature, and state the boys like it. The boys, they add, respond to orders in the most enthusiastic manner, and all must be up in their school studies, or failure to do so will mean suspension.

Parents of the Cadets are also loud in their praise of this organization, claiming that it is a great character builder, and they have only to threaten to keep "Johnny" from attending Friday night meetings to put their boy on his best behavior.

For the last few months the Cadets have been trying to raise sufficient funds to enable them to buy new uniforms for this year's convention, and have been able to raise $250 so far.

The officials say they realize that times have been hard and this is a difficult period to solicit funds. But they feel that there are enough public-spirited citizens in Bristol, sufficiently interested in the boys to volunteer donations before the convention, to enable the Cadets to purchase new uniforms.

Officials of the corps add that if the citizens of Bristol will respond to this cause with some small donation they will not only help the boys make a great showing in Philadelphia, but will be keeping the good name of Bristol before everyone who witnesses the parade.

NEWPORTVILLE MAN BEGINS TERM FOR SERIES OF THEFTS

Albert Barnhardt Admits Stealing and Receiving Stolen Goods

ALSO CARRIED A PISTOL

Alfred Depermentier, Fairhill, Given Suspended
Sentence

DOYLESTOWN, July 19.—A New-portville man today begins serving a jail sentence after pleading guilty to three charges of larceny, felonious entry and receiving stolen goods and carrying a fire-arm without a license.
He was sentenced to serve a term of two and one-half to four years in the Bucks County Prison.

Albert Barnhardt admitted that he broke into the property of Edward Freely, Bensalem township, on June 28, and stole a large quantity of household goods. On June 21 he broke into the bungalow of Albert Hampshire, Bensalem township, and stole household goods, and on June 28 he broke into the home of John Bakeoven and stole a five-gallon crock and other articles.

The defendant told Judge Boyer that he bought a .38-calibre revolver from a boy in Hulmeville, and that he did not know the pistol was loaded while he carried it. The pistol was found on Barnhardt when he was arrested and questioned about the robberies.

Alfred Depermentier, 27, of Fairhill, Hilltown township, pleaded guilty before Judge Boyer to a charge of stealing an automobile that was parked near a firemen's carnival at Silverdale on June 17. He told the court that he is married and has five children and that he was drunk at the time he took the car and did not know what he was doing. He was arrested by Constable Franklin G. Mann, of Silverdale, on a road near Hatfield.

Judge Boyer suspended prison sentence and placed Depermentier on probation for a period of three years on condition that he refrain from not only crime but drinking alcoholic beverages as well. Costs in the case were placed on the county.

DRIVERS WHO IMBIBE

The automobile driver who drinks to excess is the terror of the road. Death and disaster follow in his wake. But should any driver even taste liquor while he is operating a motor vehicle? Few will answer in the affirmative, and there are some who will contend that the moderate drinker becomes a menace to public safety when he is behind the wheel.

It is undoubtedly a fact that even a little liquor often upsets the balance and normal attitude of the mind, and affects the driver's operation of a motor car unfavorably. Liquor makes some persons confident. From other persons it takes away confidence and makes them doubtful and hesitating. Liquor does not mix well with the driving of a motor vehicle.

A motor car or truck is not improperly called a private locomotive. The driver has to undergo training to operate a machine that weighs a ton and can develop a speed in excess of a mile a minute. If it is essential that locomotive engineers abstain from liquor, then it is essential that drivers of motor cars, which have no rails to keep them in their course, abstain from intoxicating drink. The driver of a car should deny himself the use of liquor whether he rides alone or is responsible for the safety of others.

Probably the most difficult case to treat is that of the driver who does not get drunk with the intention of operating a motor vehicle while in that condition. And these cases seem to predominate. Those who must have their intoxicants should leave their cars in the garage.

NO HOPE

It was too good to be true. Were our nature more cynical than trusting, we might not have been a party to raising the hopes of the pedestrian only to see them now dashed to the ground and shattered by the very parties we sweetly and innocently believed to be his friends. It is an experience that may warp somewhat our hitherto abounding faith in the essential goodness of man.

That is to say, it is only a matter of weeks since it was reported that the great and good men who are commissioned with the control of traffic hither and yon had heard with tear-dimmed eyes the pleas of pedestrian hordes for a square deal in the division of the right of way. Uplifted and inspired by that seeming demonstration of man's nobler attributes we gushed forth a psalm of praise and thanksgiving. We effervesced in ecstatic contemplation of what seemed to be a victory for that step-child of fortune, the pedestrian.

It was entirely premature. We were victims of our all too eager credulity. We were swept away by our uninhibited emotions. Today the harassed pedestrian finds his path made steeper and rougher in some cities by traffic rules placing him in a class with his mortal enemy the motor vehicle, and elsewhere his few remaining rights are being taken from him under the threat of extermination under the wheels of crushing, rushing traffic.

Lots of times we'd think the performer rotten if we didn't know that he gets $5000 a night.

CHAPTER ONE

The radio announcer stood beside his microphone with a fox-smile on his face and a sleek dinner coat on his back. Great drum-shaped searchlights poured floods of glaring illumination into the forecourt of the theater giving everyone a look of waxen artificiality.

Here in the helmy open air, amid Babylonian columns with the starry sky overhead and marble mosaics underfoot, mingled the most beautiful women and the best-fed men on earth. The rabble—too far back to smell the expensive perfumes—was held in check by ropes and policemen who wore white gloves for the unusual occasion.

Whenever a polished motor car brought up another star, or even an established featured player, the multitudes on the sidewalk cheered and clapped hands. The announcer's excited voice began to fall over itself.

"Just a minute folks! Here comes Sybil Hall, the screen star! She's wearing a—hat! ha!—good evening, Miss Hall. Miss Hall—Miss Hall—hat! ha!—would you say a few words in the microphone, please, to the folks out there on the air."

Miss Hall consented in a voice warm and living. A silvery evening dress glistened on her body. The announcer's eyes worshipped her loveliness, for a moment before he turned to worship the next glittering arrival.

Before the evening was over the whole galaxy of Hollywood passed before the microphone and said approximately the same thing. All confessed themselves to be in a high state of excited anticipation and professed the keenest affection for the absent Leni Luneska.

The announcer, who was not going to see the picture at all, declared repeatedly that motion picture history was being made to night and his words grew increasingly electrical.

At home, his wife listened in a shuddering fear that his tongue would slip and he would say what he really thought about the whole affair. It had never happened but Mrs. Announcer lived in terror until all was safely over.

A stocky gentleman arrived and spoke a few words into the ether. He was the mayor of the city.

A domestic-looking man in a gray suit—Tom Mulrooney, chief of detectives—was ignored by the announcer and passed inconspicuously into the theater.

The announcer craned his neck hopefully to catch the curb as a tall young man wearing a negligent top coat over his dinner jacket approached. Several women turned their heads to look at him.

This was Lucky Cavanaugh—gambler—with his athlete's body and step elastic as a cat's. His skin was clear and tanned over high cheekbones, a bold Roman nose, and a solid chin. The eyes were gray, steady, unconsciously arrogant.

No one mistook him for an actor. The bony structure of his countenance belonged to a generation and a frontier and plain and sun-baked little towns. This heritage was in his face yet his voice vibrated electrically and his manners bore the unmistakable stamp of a cultured up-borough.

"And here comes Lucky Cavanaugh!" cried the announcer into his microphone. "There's a rumor around here that he'll give us his system."

The young man smiled faintly and addressed the microphone.

"Don't you believe a word of it,

"Leni! Leni! It is I—Karl! Karl Kruger!"

citizens," he said easily. "There's only one way to beat roulette—and that is to own the wheel. I didn't."

There was a burst of cheering from the street and Leni Luneska arrived triumphantly on the arm of a middle-aged gentleman in a silk hat.

She was small and slim in an evening wrap of platinum material wrapped tightly across her figure. The searchlights gave her a metallic sheen; around her blonde head there was, almost, an aura.

Her voice when she spoke for the radio audience was slightly agitated and had the quality of golden wine with bubbles rising. The scarcely perceptible accent carried the flavor of Europe.

"This night," she said, "is the climax of all that I have ever dreamed for and hoped for and worked for. If I am happy, I am also a little frightened. Give me, please, your good thoughts."

Lucky Cavanaugh took off his dark felt hat and stood quite near, watching her. As she left the microphone it was necessary for him to stand aside.

She passed so near that he sensed magnetic radiations from her body. Her face had the fresh young vitality of a flower, but the violet-colored eyes were slightly shadowed as from fatigue.

Lucky Cavanaugh's admiration suddenly was complicated by a twinge of pity. He had caught, with his gambler's sixth sense, the bewilderment, the lonely and troubled uncertainty of the lovely Leni Luneska as she stood balanced precariously on the very pinnacle of fame.

This knowledge was purely instinctive with him. He was, by profession, a gambler and endowed with some strange quality of human understanding akin to telepathy. Frequently this sense deceived him, but more often 't was amazingly accurate.

Up until this moment the matter had been only idle speculation with him when a man's guttural voice broke out from the crowd held back by the cordon of ropes and policemen.

The voice, apparently, struck the girl like a bullet. She stopped and even before she turned her head, the color began to redden from her face.

Before the nearest policeman could stop him, he had stooped and dashed under the rope like an animal. With rapid steps he crossed the forecourt and was beside her. Lucky Cavanaugh, no more than five feet from Leni Luneska, saw and heard. The man was a foreigner, shabby, emaciated. His eyes protruded and burned with excitement. The lips were thin and slightly twisted.

"I am starving, Leni!" he rattled in his throat. "Do you want me to tell everybody—the whole world—to shout it from the housetops?" He began to fling his hand and change color as policemen came rushing up. "Tell them I'm all right, Leni!"

Leni Luneska's face became smooth white marble. As the police seized the man, she spoke in strained, muffled words.

"Leave him alone, please . . . I will speak with him . . . old acquaintance . . . later—on the inside . . ."

Her escort's face was blank with lack of understanding, but Karl Kruger's step was jaunty as he walked behind the girl. There was no trouble at the door. Luneska's word was sufficient. Directly after Kruger sauntered Lucky Cavanaugh, utterly at ease.

"No wonder more people buy Buicks than all other eights in its price range combined!"

Public preference for Buick today is so overwhelming that—with 11 eights in its price range to choose from—more people buy Buicks than all of the other 10 combined.

To the man or woman who is not familiar with the new Buick Eight, such dominance may seem almost unbelievable; but to those who have driven this car, and gained even the most casual acquaintance with its capabilities, the reasons for Buick's nationwide leadership are crystal-clear.

"What," you may ask, "is so different about Buick? Why do so many people consider it superior to any other car selling at similar prices?" The answer lies chiefly in principles of design.

Because of its more enduring design and its finer quality, you will enjoy driving a Buick more years and many more thousands of miles than you would want to drive most automobiles. And you can buy it on easy G.M.A.C. terms. As a result, selection of a Buick is an economy as well as an assurance of thorough satisfaction.

HIBERNIANS LOSE TO ST. ANN'S; SCORE, 10-3

Bristol Twilight League Schedule for tonight JEFFERSON vs. A. O. H.
(Sullivan's field)
DAMP WASH vs. INDEPENDENTS
(St. Ann's field)

St. Ann's A. A. have a habit of breaking the Hibernians' winning streaks. Last night on St. Ann's field, Dave Ennis' winning streak of seven straight games was shattered as the Saints rolled up a 10-3 score. Last week, the St. Ann's team broke the eleven game winning streak of the Hibs and also the five game winning streak of the Hibernian twirler, Hal Snyder.

Ralph Narcisi twirled another wonderful game for the Independents at Edgely last night but again his mates failed to hit behind him and he dropped a 3-1 decision to the Edgely A. C. The win put the Edgelyites in second place.

Narcisi was pitted against Johnny Harmsen and a hurling match was the result. The Independents blanked the Edgelyites for five innings and Harmsen had the Independents shut-out in four innings.

In the fourth, Tranotti singled to center and scored on Avella's two-bagger to left. This proved to be the Indies' only count of fray.

Edgely scored its three tallies in the fifth. Manzo reached first on Stallone's error, Budz fled out, Pierce singled to left and Harmsen was passed. Leinheiser singled, scoring 2 runs while Fields' fly to center scored another. Gould was passed but Piazza fled out to third.

The Speediest Mermaid

By BURNLEY

LENORE WON THE 100, 220 AND 500-YD. INDOOR TITLES LAST APRIL.

MISS KIGHT WILL COMPETE IN THE NATIONAL OUTDOOR TITLE MEET AT N.Y.

© 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved

WHEN the girls get together for the National Swimming Championships at Jones' Beach, New York, there will be plenty of titles and cups and what-not hanging around just waiting to be scooped up—by those who cross the finish line first.

It is no accident that a good many of the accolades will go to Miss Lenore Kight, the Homestead, Pa., girl, who may now be rated the fastest woman swimmer in the world.

Many of the swim stars of yesterday, men and women alike, may be found in Hollywood—and out of amateur ranks. It is a great change, just now, for the younger swimmers, especially, in the ranks of the mermaids to swim out and grab all some mighty tempting honors in the amateur class.

Miss Kight has been busily doing just that in various sections of the country. She has annexed several of Helene Madison's speed titles and any number of less important aquatic crowns. One of the most sensational races that swimming fans ever witnessed was her struggle against Miss Madison in the Olympic 400 last year—in which she bowed to Helene.

It is probable that Miss Kight will be more interested in the distance events than in the sprints, as she is mistress of the art of saving her strength and building up endurance. Most of her training has been along these lines. Her stamina has improved and she may be expected to
